

The back page The 22nd. Signal name game

By Jim Koenig

It takes all kinds to put a Signal Brigade together but did you ever notice some of the name tags in the 22nd.

We have people name Nixon, Carter, Ford, and Washington. There's Whites, Browns, Grays, Blacks, Greens, and one Golden.

Records show there's a female sergeant name General and a staff sergeant name Major. We have GI's name Bacon, Rice and Cook. And one soldier, who departed the 32nd last year was named Sp4 Ronald McDonald.

There's a Long and Short, a Strong and a Week and for the outdoorsman, the Brigade has people name Trout, Bass,

Fisher, Hunter, and Hawk. The 440th has a real "McCoy" for a re-up NCO, the 17th Signal can brag about their Saint and the 32nd has a real live person named McNair. Speaking of McNair, the McNair Education Center's chief is named Jack Frost.

We have a Patton, a Castro, a Bill Mauldin and a Rory Calhoun to name a few famous folks, and some are called Strange, Blood and Savage, sounds like a new rock group doesn't it?

There's close to two thousand names in this Brigade so if the FIVE by FIVE didn't mention yours, bear with us and don't get mad. I would hate to get "Schott" over a name, its just not worth the "Price".

Short: Take a close look

By Brian Paul Fentiman

So, you're getting short. Six months before you ETS. You've sent resumes to prospective employers. Sure, you haven't heard from them yet - but those things take time. Rome wasn't built in a day! And besides, if you want a good job, you've got to expect to wait for an opportunity. Right?

However, with over 9,000,000 people unemployed in the U.S., this is the highest rate of unemployment since the "Great Depression." And it's not expected to get any better soon.

First, do you know of any other organization that allows you to completely change the job you work in if you're not satisfied with your current position. In the Army, you don't even skip a beat with your paycheck.

Privileges you say? The health care, PX and commissary privileges alone add up to big $. And that's just the tip of the iceberg. Don't forget the travel, job satisfaction, community activities and recreation the Army offers.
